About Jamie O'Reilly

Performer Jamie O'Reilly founded J. O'Reilly Productions, a one-of-a kind cultural arts agency in 1997. Combining the insights of an artist with the saviness of a businessperson, she presents an expanding roster of singular talent, provides artist development services, and produces programs and recordings of lasting impact and distinction. Jamie is an award-winning artist and registered Arts Consultant with the Illinois Arts Council. She is also an accomplished media producer and consultant.

Jamie sees clients one-on-one privately, works by phone and engages groups on a per-project basis.

Considering engaging Jamie's services? Are you good at what you do? Please review this information and find a plan that suits you.

Voice Lessons

Jamie offers singing lessons in her studio, please see the rates panel on the other side of this brochure. You can read about her approach to singing lessons at: jamieoreilly.com/consulting/guides/

Services

Jamie offers 3 distinct services for imagining, processing, producing, and presenting work. If more than one of these services is required for your needs, discuss a custom-designed plan of action with Jamie. Together you will create a written agreement that includes rates and schedules.

Media Production & Promotion

Jamie's short-term media production, promotional services and networking advice will promote a project for, and with you. We may engage a team and use the talents of others such as a publicist, graphic designer, photographer, or editor. Their services will be negotiated separately.

"Jamie's work is inclusive, insightful, and incredibly useful, offering a straightforward path to personal advancement and the acquisition of creative insight useful in every aspect of life."

-Stuart Rosenberg, Artistic Director, SPACE

Artist Development

Develop your inner artist with Jamie's guidance and coaching in areas of time-management, presenting and pitching yourself to others, growing a base, navigating the emotional ups and downs of the business, working on goals, critique and self-evaluation.

Project Development

The nuts and bolts of project development — getting it done and out of your head. Work on a distinct project — from idea to realization with a work contract, agenda and timeline, drafted by you with Jamie's help.

Jamie's Story

In the late 90s, Jamie was looking for a support system for independent artists like herself and had an interest in self-production and promotion. There were no how-to guides and few opportunities if you were not part of a not-for-profit group. So she developed a series of classes: Making a Life in the Arts at the Arts Entertainment and Media Management at Columbia College with guidance of Dennis Rich, then Chair. Her singular approach to advising arts practitioners and presenters has now been utilized throughout the Chicago community and beyond by these groups: The Portfolio Center at Columbia College, Guild Complex, Center Portion Artist Space, Victory Gardens Training Center, and Gallery 37 Center for the Arts, where she taught Adult Education in the fabulous artScape program, affiliated with Harold Washington College. Jamie's projects have become award-winning productions, and she has a roster of clients with whom she works on all aspects of their careers in the arts.
